

PQCNC ANNUAL MEETING

PQCNC “ALL TEACH -ALL LEARN” DAY

The Fifth Annual Meeting of the Perinatal Collaborative will convene stakeholders from across North Carolina to focus on current quality improvement initiatives, parent involvement in this work and increasing our capacity to work in teams. Even in collaboratives where excellent results are experienced, integrating and sustaining the re-design into the culture of our healthcare environments is nearly impossible without a focus on power, politics and the organizational hierarchy.

54 teams in North Carolina have embarked on a journey either to reduce catheter associated blood stream infections in the Newborn Critical Care Centers or a journey to eliminate scheduled deliveries without medical indications under 39 Weeks gestation. The entire membership of the Perinatal Quality Collaborative as well as guests committed to making North Carolina the best place for a baby to be born are invited to join us for an interactive day of learning.
